

The Moloughneys of Syracuse

During the 1800's many Moloughneys settled in the State of New York. There is very little history on some of the earlier migrants. The Census of 1850 shows a Michael Moloughney, age 35, who had been born in Ireland and was at that time living in Sherburne Village, Chenango County. This means he was born in 1815 but just what happened to him or where he may have gone is shrouded in history. In the Census of 1860 there is reference to a Michael (Moloughney) age 19, who had been born in Ireland, and who at that time was working as a farm labourer, living in Pompey with the Beard Family. This means he had been born in 1841 but beyond this there is no further information on his whereabouts or travels. These two Moloughneys cannot be tied to the Family History in any way. Most of our history dates from the time when three brothers came to Syracuse in 1850 and began to work in the salt factories that were then part of Salina. Salina was to become the first Ward of Syracuse; its early history is set out in Attachment No. 1.

The three Moloughneys who came to Syracuse in 1850 were Stephen, Patrick and Daniel.

Stephen was the oldest in a family of at least five boys - children of parents who are believed to have been Patrick Moloughney and Mary Ryan. He was born in 1805 and was somewhat older than his brother Michael - born in 1809, his brother Patrick - 1814, and his brother Daniel - 1816. Another brother Edward is known to have lived in the same area but it is not known just when he was born. No information is available on any of the girls that might have been part of the family. The age gaps suggest there were children born in the intervening years but their names are lost in history.

Just where the family was living when the boys were born is not known, but it must have been somewhere in the area between Nenagh and Cashel, in the northern part of Tipperary close to the waters of the Shannon. Church records in the Village of Puckane show the Moloughney family as being residents of this area (Puckane is about eight miles from Nenagh, the capital of northern Tipperary, and about two miles from the shores of Lough Derg).

The first of the boys to marry was Stephen in 1834, followed by Michael in the same year and Patrick in 1841. Daniel did not marry in Ireland. Edward is lost in antiquity and no record is known of his whereabouts.

By the late 1840's, Stephen, Michael and Patrick all had young and growing families - Stephen with six children, Michael also six and Patrick with four. The famine that struck in 1846 had a devastating effect on every family in the area, and amongst those to feel the full force were the Moloughneys and their children. The famine drove them out of Ireland, and it is presumed that all may have traveled on the same vessel - the "Jessie" that left Ireland April 29th and landed in Quebec City on May 22nd of 1850. It is known that Michael traveled on this vessel and he was heading for the area outside of Ottawa, Canada, where relatives of his wife were already living. It is presumed that Stephen, Patrick and Daniel were heading for Syracuse where it is believe that relatives of Patrick's wife (the Hogans) were already to be found. The composition of the passenger list of the "Jessie" in the spring of 1850 might have been in part as follows:

Name and Age at Time of Emigration

Stephen Moloughney	45	Michael Moloughney	41	Patrick Moloughney	36	Daniel Moloughney	34
Margaret Dunne	45	*Ellen Murphy	34	Mary Hogan	28
Patrick	15	Patrick	15	Mary	8
Ann	13	Catherine	13	Patrick	6
Roger	11	Mary	10	Bridget	4
Stephen	9	James	8	Ellen	2
Margaret	8	Eliza	5
Winnifred	5	William	3

*Ellen Murphy was pregnant and her seventh child, Margaret, was later born on the high seas somewhere on the Atlantic heading for the new world.

The "Jessie" carried only 73 passengers and the Moloughneys would have made up 23 of them. (In addition, some of the relatives of Ellen Murphy were also on the same vessel.) It must have been quite a trip. In addition to the fact that Ellen was pregnant and had six small children, there was Mary with her four, the youngest of whom was two, and Margaret with her six, the youngest of whom was five. The voyage took twenty-three days, one of the shortest up to that time. The "Jessie" was also the first recorded ship to make the voyage from Ireland to Canada without a net loss of life. . . . only one person died, and that life was replaced by the birth of a daughter to Michael and Ellen Moloughney.

The "Jessie" landed at Quebec on May 22, 1850, a day that probably was one of the peak days for arrivals from overseas. Twelve vessels arrived on the same day and disembarked 1,076 passengers. On May 21, only two passengers were disembarked, - on May 22, - 1,076! From the opening of navigation up to May 22nd, the number of passengers who landed in Quebec was 9,012.

The arrival of such a large number in the Port of Quebec on a given day and over such a short space of time created a serious problem in a city as small as Quebec was then. The family left Quebec as soon as they could.

The distance from Quebec City to the Ottawa area is not much farther than the distance from Quebec to Syracuse. They probably would have traveled together to Montreal and then Michael and his family would have gone up the Ottawa River, while Stephen, Patrick and Daniel continued on to Kingston and then south to Syracuse. It is believed that the parting of the brothers took place in Montreal and as far as is known they did not see each other again - (although some of the descendants of Patrick were to visit descendants of Michael in later years).

Michael went to the Fallowfield area outside of Ottawa where he and succeeding generations were to farm a sizeable amount of land. The original homestead finally left the family in 1931 - but there are still Moloughneys farming in the general area. Others of the name are found in cities from coast to coast in Canada, but mainly in the Ottawa area. Patrick started to work in the salt fields with his two brothers and there are descendants of his line carrying the Moloughney name to be found now in Syracuse, San Francisco and Portland Oregon. Daniel married on this side of the ocean, and while he had male offspring, there are now no descendants of his line that carry the Moloughney name. Stephen's family presents a problem. In 1857 when he obtained his citizenship papers, the spelling on the certificate was shown as "Moloney". He had many male offspring - but it's possible that while many are direct descendants to this day, they cannot now be traced because of the change in spelling.

Stephen and Patrick are buried in the Cemetery of St. Agnes in Syracuse, New York, about 350 miles from the Cemetery of St. Patrick in Fallowfield, Ontario, where Michael is lying at rest. All are thousands of miles away from the fields of Tipperary where they roamed together as young boys. Though tradition has it that Daniel Moloughney was also buried in St. Agnes, the cemetery records do not show his name.

For information on Michael Moloughney and his family, see Section 1.0. The following deals with the families of Stephen, Patrick and Daniel Moloughney. . . . the Moloughneys who went to Syracuse.

Moloughney Relationships

It hasn't been possible to find the baptism of Stephen, Michael, Patrick or Daniel and therefore there is no assurance that all four were brothers in a family that included at least one other boy, Edward, and probably girls whose names are not known. It was only in 1828 that the Emancipation Act was proclaimed and the open practice of religion again became possible. From that date on, Church records were maintained. The boys of the Moloughney family were baptized at a much earlier date and there is therefore no means of confirming that in fact they were members of the same family - except by deduction. The following points suggest quite strongly that all were at least related, and probably brothers in the same family:

1. The first-born son of each was named Patrick (the same name as the child's paternal grandfather, according to Irish naming convention.)
2. The sponsors of Stephen's Pat were Daniel Moloughney and Winnifred Dunn.
3. The sponsors of Stephen's Roger (Rhody) were Patrick Moloughney and Mary Dunn.
4. The sponsors of Stephen's Margaret were Edward Moloughney and Mary Courneen.
5. The sponsors of Michael's Pat were Patrick Moloughney and Margaret Murphy (Mrs. William Costello).
6. The sponsors of Michael's Mary were Edward Moloughney and Mrs. Patrick Hogan.
7. The sponsors of Michael's James were Daniel Moloughney and Mrs. Patrick Hogan.
8. They all attended the same church - the Church of St. Patrick in the Parish of Killodiernan, Village of Puckane.
9. They all raised their families within a short distance of each other in Ireland - Stephen in Killodangan, Michael in Urra, and Patrick in Ballycragan.

10. Stephen, Patrick, Daniel and their families all worked in the Salt factories in Salina.
11. Stephen, Patrick and Daniel all made application for citizenship papers in 1852, within a few days of each other.
12. At the naturalization of Patrick Moloughney and Daniel Moloughney, the character witnesses were the same - Patrick Hogan and Martin Hogan. (Patrick Moloughney was married to a Mary Hogan). Patrick and Daniel received their papers on Jan 29, 1857.
13. Stephen Moloney and his son Patrick received their citizenship papers in County Court, Syracuse, on January 30, 1857, one day later than Patrick and Daniel Moloughney, as reported in the Syracuse Standard.
14. In 1892 Patrick lived at 101 Court Street, Dan's Pat at 103 Court, Stephen's Pat at 109 Court, and Patrick's Pat at 306 Basin – all within a stone's throw of each other. All of the family houses on Court Street were lost to the construction of Interstate 81, while the house at 306 Basin still stands today.

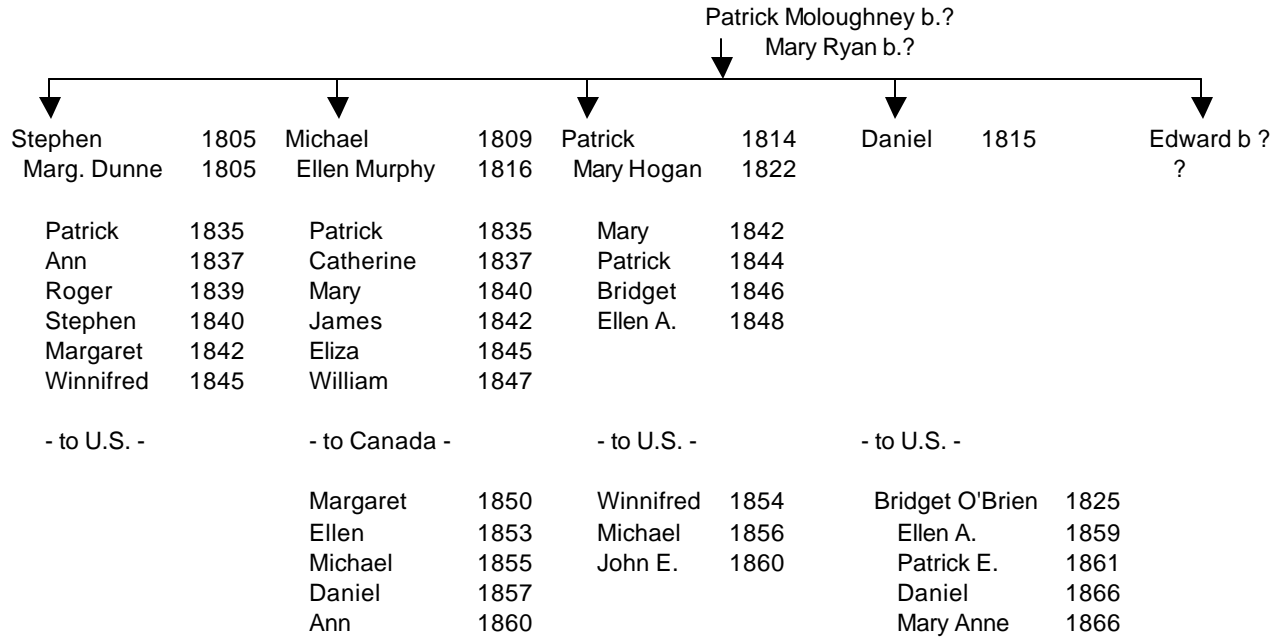

306 Basin Street

Because of the similarity of the names of the first-born male children, the fact that they all lived in the same area near Puckane, moreover they acted as sponsors for each other's children, and they worked at the same trade in the same area in Syracuse - it seems safe to assume that all were members of the same family. The following chart sets out the relationship.

The Moloughneys of Killodiernan Parish, County Tipperary, Ireland

Stephen Moloughney

14.1 STEPHEN MOLOUGHNEY (1805-)

Stephen Moloughney was born in 1805, somewhere in County Tipperary in all probability. It is not known where his parents, Patrick Moloughney and Mary Ryan, were living at the time of his birth. He was one of five brothers who grew up in the area around Puckane.

Sometime around 1834 he married Margaret Dunne. He was about 30 years of age at that time. In 1835 their first son Patrick was born, Ann in 1837, Rhody (Roger) in 1839, Stephen in 1840, Margaret in 1842 and Winnifred in 1845. The baptisms of all are recorded in the records of the Church of St. Patrick, Parish of Killodiernan, in Puckane, County Tipperary. (No further children were born to the couple after their arrival in the US.)

The name Stephen is unusual in the Moloughney family, as are the names of some children of Stephen and Margaret - Rhody (Roger) for example. However,

1. He raised his family in Killodangan in the midst of the Moloughneys of the Parish of Killodiernan,
2. Daniel Moloughney, Patrick Moloughney and Edward Moloughney each stood for children of Stephen and Margaret at the time of baptism.
3. When he migrated to Salina (the first Ward of Syracuse), he settled in an area where once again he was surrounded by Moloughneys. It appears safe to assume he was a brother of the Moloughneys of the Parish of Killodiernan.

It is not known when he and his family emigrated from Ireland. There is no record of the movement but it no doubt occurred sometime after the birth of his daughter Winnifred in 1845, most likely about 1850, the year in which it is known that his brother Michael left Ireland to make a home for himself in Canada.

The first known record of him in the United States is found in the 1855 New York Census, first Ward of Syracuse, page 496, where he is shown as being Malony, Stephen, age 50, his wife Margaret, age 50, his daughter Ann, age 17, and another daughter Margaret, age 12. In a subsequent Census there's a reference to his son Patrick and his son Rhody (Roger).

However, there is no reference to his son Stephen and his daughter Winnifred other than in the Church records of the Church of St. Patrick in Puckane.

On January 30, 1857 he obtained his naturalization papers. The Syracuse Standard of that date reported that "Maloney, Stephen and Patrick, received naturalization papers in County Court yesterday". Note the spelling - this may have been the start of a spelling that creates difficulty in tracing this line in subsequent years.

On February 3, 1858 Stephen was a character witness in connection with the naturalization of Patrick Moloughney, presumably his son.

By the time the Census of 1870 was taken he was 65, at home, supported by his son Rhody. His wife Margaret had apparently passed on, and he himself died sometime in the next 10 years since he does not appear in the Census of 1880.

All of his life in the U.S. was spent as a labourer in the salt plants. He apparently emigrated directly from Tipperary to Salina and whether he was the first to travel or whether he came with his brothers Patrick and Daniel is unknown. However, all three ended up in the salt plants as boilers or packers, and his sons Patrick and Stephen were also to follow in his steps. His first house was on Marsh near the salt yard, not too far away from his brother Patrick who was on Marsh near the Oswego Canal. The family then moved to 2 Court St., 400 Basin, 2615 Lodi, and finally to 215 Bear St. during the course of a 50 year span. None of these houses exist today.

Stephen and Margaret had six children. It is quite probable that this line was one of the more prolific producers of Moloughney males but, because of the change in spelling, it has not been possible to successfully trace their whereabouts. Their three boys were Patrick, Rhody and Stephen. Stephen is believed to have died in Ireland. It is not known whether Rhody married and had any sons. However, Patrick married and had two boys of whom Stephen in turn had five sons. It may well be that there are many Moloughneys somewhere in the world that descended from this line.

Such information as is readily available on their children is as follows:

14.1.1 Patrick Moloughney - The First child of Stephen Moloughney and Margaret Dunne. Born in 1835 and baptized in the Church of St. Patrick in Puckane, County Tipperary, Ireland. Sponsors were Daniel Moloughney, an uncle, and Winnifred Dunn, an aunt. Emigrated from Ireland when he was about 15 years of age and went to work in the salt plants in Salina as a salt boiler shortly after his arrival in the United States. He took out naturalization papers on February 3, 1858 and his character witnesses were his father Stephen and a Daniel Murray. Sometime around 1859-1860 he married Elizabeth, and the couple had four children - Margaret 1861, Stephen P. 1863, Patrick 1867 and Mary 1869. Their first house is shown as 409 Lodi, and then on Court at the corner of Lodi. From 1874 to 1885 the family lived on Court at the corner of Basin. In 1886 they moved to 12 Court and in 1889 to 109 Court where they lived until Patrick's death in 1895 at the age of 60. Their son Stephen then bought a property at 2615 Lodi and their other son Patrick bought the house next door at 2617 Lodi.

- 14.1.1.1 Margaret Moloughney. A granddaughter of Stephen Moloughney and Margaret Dunne, the first-born child of Patrick Moloughney and his wife Elizabeth. Born in 1861 in Syracuse. The 1881 Directory shows her as a "Segarmaker" still boarding at home with her parents. When her father died in 1895 she moved with her brother Patrick to 2617 Lodi. She continued in the cigar-making business and rose to be a forewoman in the plant. In 1902 at the age of 41 she married Phillip Falkener.
- 14.1.1.2 Stephen P. Moloughney. A grandson of Stephen Moloughney and Margaret Dunne, second child of Patrick Moloughney and his wife Elizabeth. Born in 1863 in Syracuse. At the age of 17 he started in the salt mills where his father and grandfather were already working. He lived at home until his marriage about 1883, when he purchased a house at 5 Turtle. Subsequent moves saw the family living at 1 Turtle, 400 Basin, and then after his father's death in 1895 he bought the house at 2615 Lodi where they remained until his death on Nov. 24, 1910, at the age of 47. Steven was buried in Section 27 Grave 324 of St. Agnes. The site is on the side of a hill and if there was a marker it has since fallen or has been buried. His widow then sold the house and bought another property at 215 Bear St. In a strange twist, both the Lodi house and the Bear Street houses are now non-commercial parking lots. The Turtle and Basin Street houses are now part of Interstate 81. The couple had seven children:

- 14.1.1.2.1 William P. Moloughney - born 1884, died Aug. 8, 1910, age 26, shortly before his father died.
- 14.1.1.2.2 Stephen F. Moloughney - born 1885 and was still living with his mother at 215 Bear St. in 1912. He died on Oct 7, 1923.
- 14.1.1.2.3 Patrick J Moloughney - born 1888. Was an elevator man and still living with his mother at 215 Bear St. in 1912.
- 14.1.1.2.4 Edward Moloughney- born 1890.
- 14.1.1.2.5 Helen C. Moloughney- City Directories show her as a knitter in 1910 and subsequently as a worker in a shoe factory. She was still living with her mother at 215 Bear St. in 1912.
- 14.1.1.2.6 Elizabeth Moloughney - in 1909 she is recorded as a bookkeeper and then subsequently as a knitter, living with her mother at 215 Bear St. in 1912.
- 14.1.1.2.7 John P Moloughney - is shown as an elevator man living with his parents up until 1910.
- 14.1.1.3 Patrick Moloughney. A grandson of Stephen Moloughney and Margaret Dunne, third child of Patrick Moloughney and his wife Eliza. Born in 1867. The records show him as a labourer throughout his working career. He lived with his parents up until his father's death in 1895 and the following year bought the house at 2617 Lodi next to the one that his brother Stephen P. Moloughney had purchased.
- 14.1.1.4 Mary Moloughney A granddaughter of Stephen Moloughney and Margaret Dunne, fourth child of Patrick Moloughney and wife Eliza. By the time she was 19 she was qualified as a Tailoress and apparently worked at that trade while boarding at home with her parents. There is no information on her after 1895.

- 14.1.2 Ann Moloughney The second child of Stephen Moloughney and Margaret Dunne. Born in 1837 in Ireland and baptized in the Church of St. Patrick in Puckane. She emigrated with her parents when she was about 13 years of age and her name subsequently shows in the New York Census of 1855. This is the only reference to her on this side of the ocean.
- 14.1.3 Rhody (Roger) Moloughney - The third child of Stephen Moloughney and Margaret Dunne. Born in 1839 in Ireland and baptized in the Church of St. Patrick. Sponsors were his uncle Patrick Moloughney and his aunt Mary Dunn. He was about 11 years of age when his family moved to the United States and the Census records of 1860 and 1870 show him as a labourer in the salt factories where his father and other relatives were working.
- 14.1.4 Stephen Moloughney - The fourth child of Stephen Moloughney and Margaret Dunne. Born in Ireland in 1840 and baptized in the Church of St. Patrick. There is no reference to this Stephen on this side of the water and it could be that he died during the course of the famine and did not get to see the United States.
- 14.1.5 Margaret Moloughney - The fifth child of Stephen Moloughney and Margaret Dunne. Born in 1842 and baptized in the Church of St. Patrick in Puckane. The sponsors were an uncle, Edward Moloughney and Mary Courneen. She would have been about 8 when her parents made the trip across the ocean. The New York Census Records of 1855 show her as being part of the family in Syracuse at that time but this is the only reference to her that has been found.
- 14.1.6 Winnifred Moloughney - The sixth child of Stephen Moloughney and Margaret Dunne. She was born in Ireland in 1845 and baptized in the Church of St. Patrick in Puckane. There is no reference to her in the Records on this side of the water and it could be that she also died in the famine of 1847.

Michael Moloughney

14.2 MICHAEL MOLOUGHNEY (1809 - 1875)

Please Refer to Section 1.0.

St. John The Baptist - The Main Church of the Moloughneys of Syracuse.

Patrick Moloughney

14.3 PATRICK MOLOUGHNEY (1814 - 1885)

Born in 1814 in County Tipperary, Ireland, a son of Patrick Moloughney and his wife (believed to be Mary Ryan). One of a family known to have had 5 boys in it; no information available as to whether or not there were also girls in the family.

His name appears in the Church Records of St. Patrick's Church in Puckane in several places:

1. Oct. 1, 1835 he acted as sponsor at the baptism of his nephew Patrick (the son of Michael Moloughney and Ellen Murphy.)
2. In 1839 he was a sponsor at the baptism of his nephew Roger (the son of his brother Stephen Moloughney and Margaret Dunne)
3. He, himself, was a principal on Feb. 6, 1842, when he married Mary Hogan in St. Patrick's Church. The witnesses were John Slattery and Honore Gleeson
4. Subsequently his name appears at the baptism of his own children - Mary in 1842, Pat in 1844, Bridget in 1846 and Ellen Agnes in 1848.

Patrick Moloughney and Mary Hogan raised their family in the townland of Ballycragan, next to Killodangan and but a stones throw from Urra where his brothers Stephen and Michael were living with their respective families. All three named their first-born sons after their father (Daniel was to do the same thing when his first son was born in Syracuse). Their father's name was Patrick, and the first-born sons were - Mick's Pat (born 1835), Steve's Pat (born 1835), Pat's Pat (born 1844) and Dan's Pat (born 1861). They attended the same Church, all no doubt attended the same social gatherings and while for them there probably was no question of identification, it does become something of a problem at this late date and distance to keep them separate and distinct.

There were many Hogans in the Puckane area and Patrick in marrying into this family took on a host of relatives. Many Hogans are still to be found in the Puckane area - but many also emigrated as a consequence of the famine in the late 1840's. It was this famine that finally drove Patrick and his wife Mary into emigrating from Ireland, and it may have been the existence of the Hogans in Syracuse that beckoned them to that destination. By deduction, it is assumed they made the crossing in 1850, at a time when their oldest child Mary was 8, Pat - 6, Bridget - 4, and Ellen - 2. Mary was herself 28 and Patrick 36 at the time. Conditions must have been extremely difficult in Ireland to cause them to undertake a voyage across the ocean with a family as young as theirs. (His brother Michael also made the trip in 1850 with a wife who was pregnant at the time - they took 6 children with them and the 7th was born on the ocean.)

After arriving in the Salina (Syracuse) area, Patrick began immediately to work in the salt fields as a salt boiler, with his brothers Stephen and Daniel and Stephen's son Patrick. On November 1, 1852, he signed a declaration of intent to become a U.S. citizen; he swore allegiance on January 29, 1857 (at the same time as his brother Daniel). Character witnesses for them were Martin Hogan and Patrick Hogan (probably Patrick's brothers-in-law). In the meantime, his daughter Winnifred had been born in 1854, another son Michael James in 1856, and subsequently the last of his 7 children, John E. in 1860.

His wife Mary Hogan was born in 1822 and died 40 years later in 1862, leaving him with a family as follows at that time:

Mary	age 20
Patrick	age 18
Bridget	age 16
Ellen	age 14
Winnifred	age 8
Michael James	age 6
John E.	age 2

This early death of his wife created problems that found the kids having to fend for themselves as soon as they were able. Bridget, Ellen, Winnifred and Michael James went into "service". Mary married Charles Holloway, a man 10 years younger than she, and in her home at 61 Gifford Ave. she looked after her brother John E., and subsequently her nephew (Michael James) when her brother was tragically drowned. Bridget married a McGraw and she continued to look after her father in the family home at 386 Second Ave. North. (Her husband also died in an accident at a young age). Patrick married about 1869, raised a large family, and was not in a position to help with the younger children.

Patrick Moloughney died in 1885, age 71, 25 years after coming to the U.S. He is buried in the Cemetery of St. Agnes in Syracuse in a plot that contains the remains of his wife, Mary, his son Michael James, his daughter Ellen Agnes, his daughter Mary Holloway, and his son-in-law Charles Holloway. The family monument was erected by his grand-son Michael James Moloughney and is one of the most impressive in the Cemetery.

The events of importance in the family of Patrick Moloughney and Mary Hogan are as follows:

1. 1814 - birth of Patrick Moloughney
2. 1822 - birth of Mary Hogan.
3. February 6, 1842 - Patrick Moloughney married Mary Hogan.
4. November 12, 1842 - birth of their daughter Mary.
5. 1844 - birth of their son Patrick.
6. November 1, 1846 - birth of their daughter Bridget.
7. August 30, 1848 - birth of their daughter Ellen Agnes.
8. 1850 - immigrated to the U. S.
9. June 17, 1854 - birth of their daughter Winnifred.
10. Aug. 24, 1855 - birth of their son Michael James.
11. January 29, 1857 – Citizenship papers given to Patrick Moloughney.
12. April 1860 - birth of their son John Edward.
13. 1862 - death of Mary Hogan.
14. 1869 - marriage of their son Patrick.
15. November 23, 1876 – marriage of their daughter Bridget to James McGraw.
16. 1879 - marriage of their son Michael James to Julia Egan.
17. September 25, 1880 - drowning of their son Michael James, age 24.
18. 1885 - death of Patrick Moloughney, the father, age 71.
19. 1889 - marriage of their daughter Winnifred to John O'Brien.
20. Oct. 26, 1889 - accidental death of James McGraw.
21. 1892 - marriage of their son John Edward to Johanna Tierney.
22. August 5, 1909 - death of Ellen Agnes Moloughney, age 61.
23. January 24, 1910 - death of their son Patrick Moloughney, age 66.
24. 1911 - death of their daughter Mary (Moloughney) Holloway, age 69.
25. 1922 - death of Charles Holloway, age 70.
26. February 20, 1925 - death of Bridget (Moloughney) McGraw, age 79.
27. February 21, 1925 - death of Winnifred (Moloughney) O'Brien, age 70.
28. 1932 - death of John Edward Moloughney, age 72

Available on each of the children and their descendants is as follows.

14.3.1 Mary Moloughney - The first child of Patrick Moloughney and Mary Hogan. Born in the Townland of Ballycragan, County Tipperary, Ireland, on November 12, 1842. She was baptized in the Church of St. Patrick in the Village of Puckane. Her sponsors in baptism were John Hogan and Ellen Hogan (possibly her maternal grand-parents). (Her tombstone in Syracuse shows 1843 as the year of her birth but the records of the Church in Puckane show November 12, 1842.)

She immigrated with her father in 1850 at the age of 8, the eldest in a family of four at that time. She grew up in the first Ward of Syracuse, and when her mother died in 1862 she took over the care of the family. At that time she was 20 and the eldest in a family of seven children. The younger children of the family were Winnifred, James and John, aged 8, 6 and 2 respectively. Eventually she married Charles Holloway.

Charles Holloway was 10 years her junior, having been born in 1852. He worked for the D.L.&W. Express Co. for many years and the couple had a house at 61 Gifford St. They did not have any children of their own. Her brother John E. stayed with her until he was ready to strike out on his own. Subsequently, when her brother Michael died at the age of 24, she took over the raising of her nephew Michael James who had been baptized on the day his father drowned.

She died in 1911 at the age of 69. Her husband died in 1922 at the age of 70. Both are buried in the Moloughney plot in the Cemetery of St. Agnes in Syracuse. (See the Story of St. Agnes Cemetery)

14.3.2 Patrick Moloughney - The second child (first son) of Patrick Moloughney and Mary Hogan. As was the Irish custom, he (as the first born son) was named after the grandfather on his father's side. He was born in Ireland, presumably near Puckane, but no record of his birth can be found in the Church Register of St. Patrick. It could be that his family was not in the Parish at that time. When his oldest sister Mary was baptized in 1842, the Townland of Ballycragan was shown as their home, but when his younger sister Bridget was born in 1846, Killodangan was shown as their home. Ballycragan and Killodangan are next door to each other. Just where they were living when Patrick was born is not known.

Patrick is believed to have been born in 1844. The Syracuse Directory of 1880 shows him as 36 years of age at that time, indicating he was born in 1844. The year 1844 fits well with the birth of his two sisters on either side of him, Mary in 1842 and Bridget in 1846. Baptism of these two sisters is found in the Church records in Puckane.

Between these two cousins there apparently developed a close relationship; in later years the families were to have their homes side by side at 2615 and 2617 Lodi, and later still at 215 and 219 Bear St. In the earlier years Patrick lived in a variety of homes as he struggled to make ends meet. At some point during his early life he injured one of his legs and carried a limp for the rest of his life.

When he was about 26, he married a girl called Elizabeth (Liza) according to Directory records - a girl the same age as he who had been born in the United States.

Patrick died on January 24, 1910, at the age of 66. His widow Elizabeth lived for several more years and most of her family lived with her first of all at 422 Sunset St. and then later at 219 Bear St. They had at least seven children.

It seems sad to see only a foundation where once
there was family.

- 14.3.2.1 Mary Moloughney - She was born in 1871 and was living with the family in 1912. She did not marry and in later years looked after her brothers William and John who had remained bachelors.
- 14.3.2.2 William P. Moloughney - He was born in 1873 and did not marry. The first reference to him is in 1890 where he is listed as being a labourer. He then became a teamster and finally in 1911 became a policeman remaining on the Syracuse force throughout the balance of his working life. In his early years he boarded with his sister Mary Moloughney, and subsequently with his sister Margaret (Faulkner) in her home at 214 West Willow St. He died on September 12, 1944 age 70.

- 14.3.2.3 Kitty Moloughney - She was born in 1874 and worked as a domestic in her early years. There is no record of her after 1897.
- 14.3.2.4 John A. Moloughney - He was born in 1878 and did not marry. He and his brother Bill lived with his sister Mary for many years. Molder by trade.
- 14.3.2.5 Margaret Moloughney - She was born in 1882. She married Phillip Faulkner and lived at 124 West Willow St. where they raised two daughters, Catherine and Margaret. Both girls became teachers and subsequently died in the west.
- 14.3.2.5.1 Catherine Faulkner
- 14.3.2.5.2 Margaret Faulkner
- 14.3.2.6 Robert T. Moloughney - He was born in 1885. He married Rose Ryan and they had at least one son.
- 14.3.2.6.1 Robert Moloughney
- 14.3.2.7 Patrick Moloughney - He was born in 1888 and married a girl called Parenteau; believed to have had one son.

14.3.3 Bridget Moloughney Third child (second daughter) of Patrick Moloughney and Mary Hogan. She was born Feb 1, 1846 in County Tipperary, Ireland and baptized in St. Patrick's Church, Puckane, sponsored by Mike Hogan and Mary Courneen. At the time of her birth her parents were living in Killodangan, just outside Puckane on the road to Urra Hill - (See map for the location of Puckane, Killodangan, Ballycragan, Urra Hill, and Lahorna - all within a mile or two of each other).

Bridget was 4 when her parents immigrated to America in the spring of 1850. Her older sister Mary was 8, her older brother Pat - 6, the baby of the family Ellen not yet 2. Nothing definite is known about the voyage across the sea nor the reason why they chose Salina (Syracuse) as their destination - except that they were emigrating as a group, and there probably already were Hogans living in Syracuse.

Bridget grew up on the north side of Syracuse in Ward 1 (originally called Salina). Her father worked in the salt fields, as did many of the Irish immigrants at that time.

Her mother died when she was 16 and shortly thereafter she began to work as a domestic. In the City Directory of 1875 she is shown as being employed at 162 James St., the home of T. Wilkinson, a banker, who had a wife, a mother-in-law, and six children to provide for.

In the following year on February 23, 1876, she married James McGraw in the Church of St. John Evangelist in the heart of town. He was 31 and she 30. The records show him as the son of John McGrath and Biddey (Bridget) Meally of Loughorna (Lahorna). As small children both Bridget and James McGraw had lived within 4 or 5 miles of each other in Ireland, and it could well be that the families had come across the sea together and ended up in Syracuse. In any event, the McGrath (McGraw) family and the Moloughney family no doubt knew each other well before coming to the States, having attended the same church, the Church of St. Patrick in the Village of Puckane. This closeness probably continued on this side of the ocean and no doubt played a part in the marriage of Bridget and James in 1876.

There were three children born of the union - Mary 1878, John 1881 and Ellen Mary 1887. James and Bridget made their home at 382 (see note below) Second North St. in Syracuse and her father lived with them as he became older and not able to look after himself. In the house next door, at 384 (see note below) Second North, lived James' mother and two of his sisters. The McGraws and the Moloughneys that had lived close together in Killodangan and Lahorna back in Ireland were together once again. (Her father Patrick Moloughney died in 1885, at the age of 71. He was buried in the family plot in the cemetery of St. Agnes in Syracuse, alongside his wife Mary Hogan who had died 23 years earlier.)

Bridget's husband was a railway engineer. He was tragically killed in a freight yard accident on October 26, 1889. Their marriage had lasted but 13 years and Bridget was left with three children, the youngest of whom was Ellen, just turned

two. John, the only boy in the family had to leave school at an early age to support his mother and sisters. (This was the start of a career that lasted for more than 60 years with the Power Company in Syracuse.) Bridget died February 20, 1925, age 79, having lived for another 36 years after the death of her husband. Both she and her husband are buried in the cemetery of St. Agnes in Syracuse.

The couple had three children, eight grandchildren, and at least 25 great grandchildren. Not only are there many descendants in this line, but some of them have gone on to make a name for themselves in academic and professional fields. The Moloughney is not carried on by any males in this family.

Note: The house addresses of 382 and 384 Second North Street do not line up with the current street numbering scheme. The numbers go to 312 and then over a cross street start up again at 404. The family did live at 511 Second North Street and the house has never left the families hands.

- 14.3.3.1 Mary (Mame) McGraw - She was born 1878 and married Louis Loughnot (born 1878 died 1934). She died in 1946. They had four children.

14.3.4 Ellen Agnes Moloughney - The fourth child (third daughter) of Patrick Moloughney and Mary Hogan. Born in Killodangan outside of the Village of Puckane. County Tipperary, Ireland on August 30, 1848. (Her tombstone in Syracuse shows 1850 as the year of her birth). She was baptized in the Church of St. Patrick in Puckane and her sponsors were Denis Sullivan and Peggy Hogan.

She was a baby as the time of her family's emigration to America in 1850. At the time of her mother's death in 1862, she was only 14 years of age. Shortly thereafter she followed the example of her sister and took employment as a domestic. At various times she was employed at 358 Spring St. and 618 West Genesee - although the greater part of her time was spent as a cook with the family on West Genesee. She did not marry. She died on August 5, 1909 at the age of 61 and is buried in the family plot in St. Agnes Cemetery in Syracuse.

14.3.5 Winnifred Moloughney - The fifth child (fourth daughter) of Patrick Moloughney and Mary Hogan. She was born on June 17, 1854 and baptized in the Church of St. John the Baptist. She was the first child born to the couple after their arrival in America.

Her mother died in 1862 when she was 8 years of age and her older sisters did their best to maintain the family life. She followed the example of her older sisters Bridget and Ellen and became a domestic, as did many other Irish girls at that time. The first record of her employment is 1878 when she was a seamstress at 162 James St. Her sister Bridget had worked there earlier and when she left to marry in 1876, it is likely that Winnifred was recommended as her replacement. 162 James St. was the home of T. Wilkinson, a banker. He employed four servants to look after a wife, a mother-in-law and six children (according to the Census of 1880). Winnifred stayed with the Wilkinsons until 1884 and then worked elsewhere as a dressmaker for a short period of time.

Some time around the late 1880's she met and married John O'Brien and the couple had three children:

Her sister Bridget died on February 20, 1925 and Winnifred died the following day - not having quite reached her 71st birthday. She is buried in the Cemetery of St. Agnes. She and her husband had three children, three grandchildren, and twelve great grandchildren. The family is still living in the Syracuse area.

- 14.3.5.1 Charles O'Brien - who died in his early 20's,
- 14.3.5.2 Francis O'Brien - He married Margaret Murray. They had no children.
- 14.3.5.3 Leonard O'Brien - He was born in 1894. He married Anna Kronen and had three sons and each of these had four children.
 - 14.3.5.3.1 Richard O'Brien - He married Helen Lynch. They had 4 children.
 - 14.3.5.3.1.1 Irene Anne O'Brien - She married Robert
 - 14.3.5.3.1.2 Kristen O'Brien
 - 14.3.5.3.1.3 Richard Charles O'Brien - He married Crystal
 - 14.3.5.3.1.4 Jeffery O'Brien
 - 14.3.5.3.2 James O'Brien - He married Catherine Haines. They had four children.
 - 14.3.5.3.2.1 Mary Kathleen O'Brien
 - 14.3.5.3.2.2 Carol Jean O'Brien
 - 14.3.5.3.2.3 Laurie Patricia O'Brien
 - 14.3.5.3.2.4 Theresa Margaret O'Brien
 - 14.3.5.3.3 William O'Brien - He married Helen St. Julian. They had four children.
 - 14.3.5.3.3.1 Catherine O'Brien
 - 14.3.5.3.3.2 Timothy O'Brien
 - 14.3.5.3.3.3 James O'Brien
 - 14.3.5.3.3.4 Martin O'Brien

14.3.6 Michael James Moloughney - The sixth child (second son) of Patrick Moloughney and Mary Hogan. He was born Aug 24, 1855 and baptized Oct 7, 1855 in the Church of St. John the Baptist on Court Street at the corner of Park St. in Syracuse. When his mother died in 1862, he was just a little more than six years of age. Like his sisters Bridget, Ellen, Winnifred and many others of the Irish that had immigrated in the middle 1800's, he went into Service and was a Valet to Senator Wadsworth in Geneseo, New York. It was there that he met and married Julia Egan, a catholic girl from a prosperous neighbouring family. The marriage probably took place some time during 1879 in the Church of St. Mary in Geneseo. Their first and only child, Michael James, was born on August 5, 1880. He was baptized on September 25th and during the course of the day's events, the father was tragically drowned. The Syracuse Journal of October 2, 1880 carried the following:

“ Maloughney, Michael James, died September 25th, 1880 at Geneseo, Livingston County, New York, formerly of Clay, son of Patrick Moloughney, age 24”.

His body was returned to Syracuse and he is buried in the family plot in the Cemetery of St. Agnes Section 6 Plot 10.

His widow Julia also returned to Syracuse and lived in a house at 94 Seymour for eight or nine years. During this time she apparently took in boarders. The Directory of 1884 indicates that her sister-in-law Winnifred was boarding with her at that time. Julia and Winnifred were about the same age, Julia having been born in 1853 and Winnifred in 1854. Eventually, however, Julia had to find some other means of making a living; she moved to New York where she became a nurse. Her sister-in-law Mary Moloughney, who had married Charles Holloway and did not have any children, took over the upbringing of young Michael James who at that time was about nine years of age. Julia eventually remarried in New York, but Michael James was brought up entirely by his uncle and aunt after the adoption.

The original Michael James Moloughney had only one son before his untimely death. Through his line there was: one son, four grandchildren, thirteen great-grandchildren, and as of 1978 eight great great grandchildren.

- 14.3.6.1 Michael James Moloughney - He was born in 1880, and married Maria Drumm and had four children - Young Michael James was responsible for putting up the tombstone in the Cemetery of St. Agnes to mark the burial of his father, the aunt and uncle who had raised him, another maiden aunt, as well as his grandparents, Patrick Moloughney and Mary Hogan. He died on May 5, 1957, not quite 77 years of age. His wife Maria who had been born on August 13, 1880, predeceased him by 3 years, having died in 1954 at the age of 74.
- 14.3.6.1.1 Frances Lemoyne Moloughney - She was born in 1908 and married John Shanahan Gallard (born 1906). They had five children.
- 14.3.6.1.1.1 Gregory Steven Gallard - He was born in 1937 and married Joan Cardarelli. They had one child.
- 14.3.6.1.1.1.1 Laura Gallard - Private.
- 14.3.6.1.1.2 Laurence Michael Gallard - Private. He did not marry.
- 14.3.6.1.1.3 Calista Gail Gallard - Private. She married Carl Patcharie. They had five children.
- 14.3.6.1.1.3.1 Carl Joseph Patcharie
- 14.3.6.1.1.3.2 Sara Elizabeth Patcharie - Private.
- 14.3.6.1.1.3.3 Allison Theresa Patcharie - Private.
- 14.3.6.1.1.3.4 Rebekah Patcharie - Private.
- 14.3.6.1.1.3.5 Seth Patcharie - Private.
- 14.3.6.1.1.4 Roger Malcolm Gallard - Private. He married Geneva Bennett. They had one child.
- 14.3.6.1.1.4.1 Maria Rose Bennett Gallard - Private.
- 14.3.6.1.1.5 Dana Brendan Gallard - Private.
- 14.3.6.1.2 Charles William Moloughney - He was born in 1910 and married Patricia Florez, and then was remarried to Ruth Siels. Charles died in 1977. Charles and Ruth had two children.
- 14.3.6.1.2.1 Michael Howard Moloughney - Private. He did not marry.
- 14.3.6.1.2.2 Tara Moloughney - Private. She married Carl Capello. They had one child.

- 14.3.6.1.2.2.1 Odin Capello - Private.
- 14.3.6.1.3 Mary Marguerite Moloughney - She was born in 1913 and married Warren Augustus Green. Warren died in 1976.
- 14.3.6.1.3.1 Warren Green - Private.
- 14.3.6.1.3.2 Philip Green - Private.
- 14.3.6.1.3.3 Mark Green - Private.
- 14.3.6.1.4 James Aloysius Moloughney - Private. He married Dorothy Missetch. They had three children.
- 14.3.6.1.4.1 David Moloughney - Private. He married Jean.
- 14.3.6.1.4.2 Jane Marion Moloughney - Private. She married Carlson.
- 14.3.6.1.4.3 Steven Moloughney - Private.

14.3.7 John Edward Moloughney - The seventh child (third son) of Patrick Moloughney and Mary Hogan. He was born in April of 1860 according to Census Records. At that time the family was apparently living in Pompey, having temporarily moved away from the salt fields where Patrick had been first employed.

His mother died in 1862, and the family returned to the north side of Syracuse where their relatives were living. The care of John Edward age 2, Michael James - 7, and Winnifred -9, fell mainly to their oldest sister Mary. Mary was 20 at the time, and when she eventually married Charles Holloway she took John Edward with her to live with them at 61 Gifford St.

John Edward's first trade was that of steamfitter, and when he was first listed in the City Directory in 1882 he was shown as living with his sister and brother-in-law at 61 Gifford St. He subsequently became a Teamster with the Brewing Co. in Syracuse, and spent the rest of his working years with them.

Some time in his early 30's he married Johanna Tierney. (Johanna Tierney (born 1862 and died in 1922, age 60). They had their first house at 144 Richmond St., then for a short period at 638 Burnout Ave. and finally at 303 and 307 Coolidge St. where the family lived for the greatest length of time. His wife Johanna died when he was 62 and his daughters Josephine and Ellen lived with him until his death ten years later at the age of 72 in 1932.

John Edward had five children, one grandchild and five great grandchildren. He did not have sons who lived to maturity and the family name Moloughney is therefore not continued by this line.

He and his wife Johanna - as well as his daughters Josephine and Ellen - are buried in the Cemetery of St. Agnes in Syracuse. The couple had a family of five, two boys and three girls. Both the boys died in infancy.

- 14.3.7.1 Mary Moloughney - She was born Apr 26, 1894. She started to work in 1909 and left home at 18 to go first to Washington and then on to New York City, working as a Stenographer. When her mother fell sick, she returned to look after her.

After the death of her mother in 1922, she went west to Los Angeles where she met and married Karl Schmaelzle on October 26, 1926. (born June 2, 1892 and died in 1962, at the age of 70). The couple had one child.

- 14.3.7.1.1 Mary Ann Schmaelzle - She was born in 1929 and married Thomas W. Nelson. They had five children.

14.3.7.1.1.1 John Nelson - Private.

14.3.7.1.1.2 Mark Nelson - Private.

14.3.7.1.1.3 Paul Nelson - Private.

14.3.7.1.1.4 Elizabeth Nelson - Private.

14.3.7.1.1.5 Michael Nelson - Private.

- 14.3.7.2 Josephine A. Moloughney - She was born July 1896 and did not marry. In the Herald Journal of January 4, 1974 the following appeared:

Moloughney, Josephine A., 522 Crossett St. died at home today. Retired East Syracuse School District 1960 after she taught for 40 years. Survived by sisters: Ellen A. of Syracuse, Mrs. Karl J. Schmaelzle of Summitt, New Jersey, and a niece Mrs. Thomas W. Nelson of New York City.

- 14.3.7.3 Ellen A. Moloughney - She was born May 1900 and did not marry. She was a secretary with the Equitable Insurance Company. Ellen died in 1977.

Daniel Moloughney

14.4 DANIEL MOLOUGHNEY (1815 - 1881)

Daniel Moloughney was born in 1815, somewhere near the village of Puckane in Tipperary. He was one of five brothers, a son of Patrick Moloughney and Mary Ryan. His birth does not appear in the church records since the Emancipation Act had not yet been proclaimed. This Act came into force in 1828, and from that date there may be church records showing baptisms, marriages and deaths. Records of St. Patrick's, Puckane, begin only in February 1834. Daniel's name appears in the church records of St. Patrick in the village of Puckane, Tipperary in two different places

1. In 1835 he was one of the sponsors at the baptism of his nephew, Patrick (the first born son of his brother, Stephen Moloughney and Margaret Dunn)
2. On Apr 10, 1842 he was a sponsor at the baptism of his nephew James (son of his brother, Michael Moloughney and Ellen Murphy).

Daniel came to America as a single man, probably about 1850, when he was 35 years of age. He most likely made the trip with his brothers Stephen, Patrick and their families. Why the group chose Salina (Syracuse) as their destination is not known but it could well be that Patrick had relatives in the area. He was married to a Hogan and there were lots of Hogans in the area. As a matter of fact, Irish immigrants settled much of the Syracuse area, many of whom came from the County of Tipperary. When he arrived in the Syracuse area, Daniel started to work immediately in one of the salt factories as a salt packer.

He filed papers to become a U.S. citizen on Nov 1, 1852, and swore allegiance on Jan 29, 1857. His character witnesses were Martin Hogan and Patrick Hogan (probably relatives of his brother's wife, Mary Hogan Moloughney).

On Feb 22, 1857, he married Bridget O'Brien in the Church of St. John the Baptist. Witnesses were his brother Patrick Moloughney and a Kate Murray. There may have been some tie-in with the Murrays somewhere along the way; apart from the appearance of Kate as a witness at Daniel's marriage, there is also a Dan Murray who was a character witness in connection with the naturalization of Patrick Moloughney, a son of Stephen.

At the time of his marriage Daniel was 42 years of age, and Bridget was 32. She had but recently arrived in the United States, having come to this country in 1856. Shortly after arrival she met Daniel and they were married the subsequent year. They immediately started a family - Ellen Agnes in 1859, Patrick E. in 1861, and twins Marry-Ann and Dan in 1866. There were also two other children who presumably were born in the period between 1861 and 1866 and of whom no record has been found. In addition to his children, Daniel also had relatives to look after. In 1865, according to the New York Census, he had a sister-in-law, Ann, (age 45) living with him as well as a niece, Mary (age 20).

The families of both Daniel and Stephen tended to make their homes on Court Street, close to the Church of St. John The Baptist and near the school of the Sacred Heart. In 1870 Daniel had a house on Court near Basin. In 1874 he opened a Saloon at 4 Court Street and operated it through 1881. He had finally been able to escape the thirstiness of the salt factories and was able to devote himself to satisfying thirst rather than creating it.

Daniel died in 1881 at the age of 66. His wife Bridget took over the Saloon and operated it until 1888. The family then bought a house at 103 Court St. and Bridget and the family lived there from 1894 until her death on Feb. 8, 1901, at the age of 76.

The couple had six children of whom two died in infancy, and another, Mary, was to die at the young age of 17 from pneumonia contracted while skating. Their son, Daniel, did not marry. He lived with his mother, and then his sister and her family after his mother had passed on. While their son Patrick did marry, he did not have any children. Ellen Agnes married Dan McCarthy and to her fell the task of keeping the family together; she raised her own family as well as looking after her mother and her brothers as they grew older. The house at 103 Court St. was the home of the family from about 1884 until the early 1900's. They then moved to 709 Carbon St. and this became the family home. A descendent of Daniel Moloughney - his granddaughter Irene (McCarthy) Schneider - is still living at that address as of the spring of 1979.

Available on the descendants of Daniel Moloughney and Bridget O'Brien is as follows:

14.4.1 Ellen Agnes Moloughney - The first-born child of Daniel Moloughney and Bridget O'Brien. She was born on Aug 28, 1859. The 1880 Census shows her as a dress-maker living at home with her parents. Her father died the following year and she and her two brothers continued to live with her mother at 103 Court Street.

About 1886 she married Dan McCarthy and the couple began to raise a family at that same address. (Dan McCarthy was born in 1859 and died of a heart attack in 1922, age 63). When her mother died in 1901, her brother Daniel continued to live with them and moved with them to 709 Carbon St. when that relocation came about. Daniel never did marry and lived with his sister Ellen and then his niece (Irene McCarthy Schneider) until his death in 1957 at the age of 91.

Ellen Agnes McCarthy died in 1945 at the age of 86. She and her husband and her parents are buried in Section 16, Plot No. 132 in St. Agnes Cemetery (her parents had first of all been buried in the old cemetery on 1st North Street and then moved and re-interred subsequently in the St. Agnes Cemetery). No Monument is evident. Ellen Agnes and her husband Dan McCarthy had six children:

709 Carbon Street

- 14.4.1.1 Dennis McCarthy - was born Apr 19, 1888; he married Nellie O'Brien and died in 1945 at the age of 57. They had no children.
- 14.4.1.2 Dan McCarthy - was born Apr 21, 1890; he married Nellie Scallion and died 1976 at the age of 85. They had three children.
 - 14.4.1.2.1 Patrick McCarthy - died in infancy.
 - 14.4.1.2.2 Mary Irene McCarthy - She married Norman Forth.

14.4.1.2.3 Margaret McCarthy - She married John Rusinko and the couple had two children, one of whom is called Daniel.

14.4.1.2.3.1 Daniel Rusinko.

14.4.1.3 Mary Ann McCarthy - was born Oct 21, 1892 and died 1924, age 33.

14.4.1.4 Patrick McCarthy - died in infancy in 1893

14.4.1.5 Raymond McCarthy - was born Aug 21, 1894; He did not marry.

14.4.1.6 Irene McCarthy - was born Jan 5, 1896; she married William Schneider in 1942; (born 1895 and died in 1970, age 75). They had no children.

14.4.2 Patrick E. Moloughney - He was born in 1861, the second child of Daniel Moloughney and Bridget O'Brien. By 1882 he had begun to work as a salt boiler and continued at that trade for about 15 years while living at home with his parents. In 1897 he married Mary Gero and moved to his own house at 803 North State St. He then began to work as a plasterer and subsequently switched to another trade. The couple did not have any children.

14.4.3 Daniel Moloughney - He was born in 1866, a twin of Mary Ann Moloughney. His father died in 1881 when he was 15 years of age and his twin Mary Ann died two years later in 1883 when he was 17.

Daniel worked as a labourer, living with his mother until her death in 1901. By that time he had acquired a trade as a Lather and continued to live with his sister Ellen Agnes and his brother-in-law Daniel McCarthy in the family home at 103 Court St. and then finally at 709 Carbon. Daniel did not marry. When his sister died in 1945, his niece Irene McCarthy Schneider continued to look after him. He died in 1957 at the age of 91 in Loretta Rest in Syracuse. It is said that he had a book on family history but at this point in time, the spring of 1979, all attempts to trace it have proven to be futile.

14.4.4 Mary Ann Moloughney - The fourth known child of Daniel Moloughney and Bridget O'Brien. She was born in 1866 and was a twin of Daniel. She died in 1883 at the age of 17, having caught a cold while skating.
